Coach's Corner: Anthony Spencer Leading the Bulldogs

Now in his second season as head coach, Anthony Spencer has embraced the challenge of rebuilding Wyandotte's proud basketball tradition. "Being in Kansas City, Kansas, and working in special education, I've seen that these kids really need me," Spencer said.

A former college player with a passion for coaching, Spencer has become a mentor both on and off the court.

"It's been the biggest blessing in my life. I don't know what I'd do if I wasn't a basketball coach."

While wins haven't come as often as the Bulldogs would like, the lessons keep stacking up.

"We gotta keep pushing," one player said. "No excuses. No excuses at all."

"Patience and consistency are everything. This adversity is going to change a lot of these kids' lives in a positive way."

For Coach Spencer, the focus is on growth, not just the scoreboard: Just like former alumni Calvin Thompson, (class of 82) always says, "It's More Than Just A Game!
